

Abstract

29/776174

#3

A method and system is disclosed for requisitioning products and services in an organization. The method and system incorporates various best business practices into a flexible system that stream lines the requisitioning process. In one version the system and method is adapted to and takes advantage of a network computer system of an organization.

00376471-0000004